Contraband Explosive Slips Through To Palestine War

NEW YORK, Jan. 10—Seventy-three tons of the super-explosive "cyclonite" were reported on the high seas today, presumably en route to Jewish defense forces in Palestine.

Authorities reluctantly decided the contraband had slipped through their blockade after checking the disposition of 199 tons of cyclonite purchased from the Seneca Ordnance depot at Romulus, N. Y.

Foundry Associates of New York, the mysterious organization which acquired the 199-ton consignment from the War Assets Administration, lost, at least temporarily, the bulk of the explosives in a series of raids in the past two days.

Fifty-nine tons of the cyclonite were seized in a farmhouse near Asbury Park, N. J., and on trucks in the vicinity Thursday night and early Friday morning.

Another shipment of 67 tons was intercepted yesterday on three truck-trailers near Saugerties, Ulster County, N. Y.

This left the remainder of the Boys' Club Draws Only 40 Youths

About 40 Circleville youngsters between the ages of 6 and 16 reported to the High school gym Saturday morning, ready to participate in the second annual Boys' Club, sponsored by the Jaycees.

Ed Amey, supervisor for the group, explained the set-up for the coming year.

"All boys who wish to join our club must bring gym shoes, trunks, a towel and soap to every meeting," Amey said. "When the other 74 boys, who have signed up already for the sessions, arrive, we will set up a schedule for each age group, and you will be notified when to report by next Saturday."

THE GROUP this year is smaller than last year's. Over 200 boys participated in the 1947 sessions. Only 105 have signed up so far this year. Amey is confident the group will expand and predicts it may be larger than last year's club.

The purpose of the club is to give the youngsters a Saturday work-out and at the same time instruct them in the various

3 Of 5 Bandits Nabbed After Bank Robbery

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 10—The search for two of five youthful bandits who robbed a New Orleans bank of $130,000 in a daring daylight holdup centered today in Pensacola, Fla.

Three of the men were captured within six hours after the gunmen fled with their loot shortly before the bank—the mid-city branch of the Hibernia National Bank—was scheduled to open yesterday morning.

Most of the stolen money was found in the trio's possession.

The two still at large were said to have taken a bus headed for Pensacola. One was reported to be a New Orleans resident.

The trio taken into custody was charged with armed robbery. They were identified as George W. Reicketts, 23; his nephew, Tommie Reicketts, 21, and John Hasselbach, 23.

DETECTIVE Capt. Harry Gregson said the three men admitted participating in the hold-up.

The five men slipped into the bank as employees were filing in to the building preparatory to original 199 tons unaccounted for and presumably en route to Palestine.

WAA has placed an embargo on all undelivered orders of the surplus explosives in the New York district pending completion of investigations by the FBI and state and local authorities.

Arab leaders at the United Nations have cited the cyclonite seizure as evidence of widespread smuggling of munitions of war to Palestine by Jewish sympathizers.

Protests already have been made to the State department in Washington against permitting munitions to be shipped clandestinely to Palestine.

The American League for a Free Palestine issued a statement today urging the raising of the State department's embargo on shipment of defense weapons to Palestine. The statement said:

"WE ASSUME that the explosives seized by the government were secured by well intentioned Americans seeking to supply the empty Hebrew defense arsenals in Palestine.

"We have the highest regard for their good intentions but don't believe this is the way.

"Help to the embattled Hebrews defending themselves against criminal Anglo-Arab incendiaries must not be clandestine.

"American arms should go to the Hebrews of Palestine openly and proudly on American vessels."

Twelve persons held in connection with the Foundry Associates explosives are awaiting court action.

60 Injured As Loco Explodes

BOSTON, Jan. 10—Nearly 60 passengers were injured today and an engineer was trapped in the wreckage when a New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad locomotive exploded in the Back Bay station.

The locomotive plowed across the platform and overturned in a shower of sparks and steam. Three of the four cars on the train from Providence, R. I., due at South Station at 8:47 a. m., were derailed.

Trapped in the wreckage of the overturned cab was John Moorehead, a survey engineer for the railroad. Firemen worked for an hour and a half with acetylene torches before he was freed.

Moorehead was making a survey of the roadbed. He was seated on the left side of the cab, normally occupied by Fireman Hirst, of Greenville, R. I., when the accident occurred.

HIRST WAS unhurt and pulled from the wreckage of the locomotive engineer, Daniel L. Norton, of Providence.

Both Moorehead and Norton were among the injured who were rushed to City hospital.

The train was slowing down for the station when the locomotive exploded, leaped from the rails, plowed along the ties, then ripped over an iron picket guard fence and bounced over the platform.

2 Ohioans Held In Slaying Of 'Baby Bandit Gang' Pal

QUINCY, Ill., Jan. 10—Two teen-age Mansfield, O., youths were held by Quincy police today in connection with the death of their "baby bandit gang" companion.

The victim identified as Ellsworth Leroy Miller, 17, member of a ring of four boys and a girl who left Mansfield a week ago on a crime-studded trip to California, was shot fatally with a stolen gun in a Quincy hotel room early yesterday.

Under arrest are Richard A. Grubaugh, 17, who admitted holding the weapon, and Robert W. Livingstone, 16.

Authorities said the pair confessed taking part in a holdup of the Korean Jobbing Co. in Peoria Thursday afternoon, before traveling to Quincy by bus.

The young prisoners also involved the two other members of the gang, Bruno Dresch, 22, and his New Year's Day girl-bride, Ruth, 16, both of whom were later arrested in a Peoria hotel.

OFFICIALS quoted Grubaugh as first blaming Miller's death on an argument over division of the $200 stolen from a Peoria loan firm. Later, according to police, the young prisoners

Tobey Predicts Gen. Ike To Be Next President

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10—Sen. Tobey (R) N. H., today became the first prominent Republican to announce he would support Army Chief of Staff Dwight D. Eisenhower for President.

Tobey not only promised Eisenhower support, but he predicted his election.

His announcement came with the disclosure that a full slate of Eisenhower delegates will run in the New Hampshire presidential primary March 9. The New Hampshire primary is the first in the country.

Tobey also said that he had accepted a directorship in the "Draft Eisenhower League" in New York City.

The New Hampshire senator is one of the foremost independent Republicans in the senate. He has been openly critical of the Republican leadership, and has not hesitated to attack Senate GOP Leader Taft (R) Ohio, an announced candidate for the nomination.

Normal Winter Trend Is Here

By International News Service

The Ohio weather was back to its normal Winter trend today, with temperatures holding below freezing all over the state.

Weather bureau forecasters said that there would be little change through Sunday and that a little rise in the mercury could be expected by Monday.

An overcast sky was predicted for tomorrow, but there is little likelihood of snow.

Snow flurries yesterday have made roads slippery in spots in Northern Ohio and in a few places in the southeastern section. The state department of highways reported roads elsewhere in normal condition.

near the police station a short time later.

In Peoria yesterday Dresch gave police a statement detailing a crime wave that began when they left their Mansfield homes in a stolen car Jan. 2.

He said they had planned to go to California, financing the trip by staging holdups along their route.

THEIR FIRST robbery, police quoted Dresch as asserting, was at Ft. Wayne, Ind., where they held up a filling station. The car broke down in Fairbury afterwards and all proceeded to Peoria by bus.

He admitted robbing an oil station Monday and the jobbing firm Thursday, police said.

The young prisoner, regarded as the group's ringleader, identified himself as a dishonorably discharged Marine and said he had served a two-year sentence in a federal prison for a $40,000 holdup in San Pedro, Calif., in May, 1945.

He said he and his bride were married in Greenup, Ky., on New Year's Day after eloping over her parents' protests. He said he was formerly employed by a Mansfield oil concern.

UN Keeps Close Watch On Yank Holy Land Move

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Jan. 10—The United Nations is watching closely any "developments in the United States and abroad which may culminate in the sending of troops into embattled Palestine.

Reports from London that U. S. Marines may land in the Holy Land in agreement with Britain to guard the American consulate in Jerusalem aroused intense interest among delegates present at Lake Success for the "little assembly" and the Palestine commission.

The rampant bloodshed and violence steadily growing in intensity in the Holy Land already has raised that problem to the most urgent issue under consideration at Lake Success.

The opening speech by Secretary-General Lie to the five-power UN group urging it to seek full backing from the security council in the enforcement of partition was tantamount to an admission that armed force must be employed if the partition plan is to succeed.

A NUMBER of UN observers feel that the security council will be inclined to shrink from actual attempts to form a United Nations force for Palestine, unless the nucleus is already on the ground.

In UN circles at Lake Success, consequently, the belief is that if the United States starts sending "Leathernecks" into Palestine in even small groups, the die will soon be cast.

The same sources point out that Russia and other countries would surely follow the American example and match the "protective" force with their own units.

Yank Troops Said Sent To Palestine

U. S. Diplomats Have No Comment

JERUSALEM, Jan. 10—British troops killed at least five and perhaps eight Arabs today in wiping out a strategic snipers' post near Gaza amid continuing reports that American troops will reach Jerusalem within two weeks to guard consular property.

The incident at Gaza, which lies within that area of Palestine to be granted to the Arabs under the UN partition plan, was the second in the past two days in which British soldiers have engaged Arabs.

Yesterday, 40 Arabs were reported killed when British troops and Haganah defense militiamen repulsed an Arab invasion of Northern Palestine from Syria.

In Jerusalem, reports persisted that United States Marines will arrive in the Holy Land within a fortnight to guard American consular property.

IT WAS reliably reported that the Palestine government had granted permission to several foreign consulates to bring in their own troops to serve as guards.

In Washington, State department officials said such a move has been discussed but no decision has been made.

About a thousand U. S. Marines are en route to the Middle East, with tanks, jeeps, and other land equipment.

A foreign office spokesman in London said that the British would not "be surprised" if Marines were sent to Palestine.

The report said that the Marines would be used to guard

There are about 5,000 Americans in Palestine, most of them Jewish.

British armored patrols scouted the Syrian border, across which 600 Arabs moved yesterday to attack two Jewish settlements.

HAGANAH militiamen and British tommyes held defensive positions against possible repetition of the attacks.

But competent circles believed that the Arabs will make no further mass attacks at this time. They said that yesterday's attack was timed to influence the United Nations' Palestine committee, which opened its deliberations at Lake Success.

Crack British Lancers, whose motto is "Death or Glory", were ordered to remain at the Jewish settlements of Dan and Kfar Szold, where yesterday they joined Jews in beating off an Arab "invasion."

Meanwhile, the British government filed a stern protest with Syria, from whose territory the attack was launched, and warned that any attempt at an Arab invasion from Syria will be resisted to the utmost extent of Britain's powers.

Brothers Held For Forgery

Both men are in default on bond payments. Joseph pleaded guilty last week and was confined to await the panel's action.

Sheriff Charles Radcliff reported the brothers wrote out $35 checks to each other then cashed them at the garage and gasoline station.

MOVIE'S MAGICAL MUSIC

How Film Stars Borrow Talented Tonsils, Highly Skilled Hands of Top Musicians

JOE ITURBI
When he plays it is the real McCoy

KATHARINE HEPBURN
Her movie piano is actually mute

By VICTOR GUNSON
Central Press Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD — Hollywood's musical magic has reached its zenith.

Long adept at making things appear as they aren't, the movie makers have just won critical acclaim with a right-before-your-eyes presentation of Katharine Hepburn as a once world famous pianist.

Katie Hepburn never has played a note in her life.

However, in "Song of Love" her studio succeeded in having her give a performance without a flaw, either musically or technically.

It took a long chance of having Miss Hepburn's own fingering of the piano right before the eyes of audiences.

WHAT THE AUDIENCE cannot realize is that the piano she played before the camera is muted. The music is that of Artur Schnabel, world famous concert pianist.

It wasn't, however, all play and no work for Miss Hepburn.

For a solid month, under the critical eyes of a teacher, she practiced the fingering of Rubinstein's music. Hour after hour, day after day, she went over and over the score until, to use her own words, "sometimes I felt that I would scream."

"I never worked on anything so hard in my life," Miss Hepburn explained. "I never had anything make me happier than when it was completed."

She had to be good. She was playing the role of Clara Schumann. Paul Henreid appeared as her husband, Robert Schumann, and Robert Walker as another composer, Johannes Brahms.

Henreid and Walker also "played" in the picture, but they had no such work as fell to their co-star. Their hands weren't shown on the keyboard, and Rubinstein played for them, too. He gave a different touch to his artistry for each of them.

THE MOVIE ASSIGNMENT was nothing new for this concert master. He was the one who played the score two years ago when Catherine McLeod appeared as a concert pianist in "I've Always Loved You," a film for this Rubinstein received an announced $85,000. Rubinstein played himself in "Carnegie Hall."

Miss McLeod had a much easier time than Miss Hepburn because she plays. Catherine had another recent experience in movie "dubbing." She played a singer recently and another voice was used. "Dubbing" of both music and singing long has been a standard Hollywood practice because it makes for purity of quality. Every studio has its special recording stage where the acoustics are perfect. These are specially sound-proofed.

Whether it be a symphony or Spike Jones, Frank Sinatra or

EDDIE BRACKEN
Out of his mouth ...

BING CROSBY

some singer whose voice will be dubbed into another person's mouth, their numbers are recorded, as a phonograph record is recorded, on these special stages.

Then, when the scene is shot, they are played back and the singers, or musicians, merely go through the motions of singing or playing.

THAT IS WHY music or voices can be substituted with greater ease than a movie audience would imagine.

Larry Parks, playing the title role, used Al Jolson's voice for the musical numbers in Columbia's "The Jolson Story." Concert pianist Jose Iturbi, who frequently plays himself in pictures, furnished the piano recording for actors who can't play a note in two recent pictures.

It was Iturbi's music when Cornel Wilde sat at the piano in "A Son to Remember." Again you'll be hearing Iturbi when Frank Sinatra portrays the role of the great Peter Tchaikovsky in "Song of My Heart."

When June Allyson played the piano in "The Secret Heart" she wasn't supposed to be a world famous musician, so June merely learned to finger the keys and a member of the studio music department furnished the score.

They had more of a choice at another studio when John Garfield was presented as a concert violinist in "Humoresque." For John never had played a note on any instrument in his life.

The music itself was furnished by Isaac Stern, world famous violinist, and Garfield spent a month familiarizing himself with fingering for the long shots.

However, the studio was not taking any chances of any violinists poking fun at them in the close-ups.

In these, Garfield actually did nothing except stand still with his hands at his side. A special contrivance held the violin out from his chin.

Garfield's clothes were so arranged that two violinists could be crouched by him. One of these used the bow and the other did the fingering. Audiences never knew the difference.

The "dubbing" process was used to score a smash comedy hit two years ago. The picture, "Out of This World," was a take-off on Sinatra's sensational success.

Eddie Bracken played the crooner and out of his mouth in numerous singing sequences came Bing Crosby's voice. When he finished his last number, as an aside, Eddie said, "Thank you, Bing."

When Patricia Dane, Tommy Dorsey's ex-wife, returned to the screen after a four-year absence in "Fighting Mad," there was a singing sequence for her.

PAT ISN'T a singer, but that didn't bother the studio a bit. They just dubbed the voice of Ruth Clark into her mouth.

As far as dubbing is concerned, Patricia Morison thinks she had one of Hollywood's most unusual experiences. She was first "discovered" singing in musical comedy in New York.

Patricia was signed for her voice, but the studio never utilized this special talent although all the time Pat was studying for concert work.

Several years went by and while Pat was out of town her agent signed her for a role in "Silver Skates," to be filmed by another studio.

When Pat arrived for the role, she found that the new studio didn't even know she could sing and had had another singer record her songs for the picture.

So, Patricia Morison, with the beautiful voice, merely mouthed the words sung by another girl.

'Lettuce Box' Working OK

COLUMBUS, Jan. 10 — The "lettuce box" is keeping many Ohio State university students solvent these days.

The box, a glass-paneled case, stands just inside the door of famed Hennick's restaurant near the campus. Inside are approximately a dozen five dollar bills suspended by metal clips.

Financially embarrassed students can borrow one of the bills by substituting a card promising to repay the loan—without interest—in a maximum five-day period. Restaurant Owner W. T. Parker says there have been no defaults to date.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 10 — Several Baldwin-Wallace college students were reported today to have withdrawn from the suburban Berea institution because of objection to a required course in religion.

Eight students, all Catholic, were said to have objected to the course. They included Norbert Badar, Ohio Conference 220-yard low hurdles track champion, and Brian McCall of East Palestine, second highest scorer on the college basketball team.

President Louis C. Wright, in a written statement, said the college planned no change either in the course, required of seniors for graduation, or in required chapel attendance.

A meeting has been scheduled for tomorrow night by the 163 Catholic students at the Methodist college.

The problem came to a head when Miss Rita Mahoney of suburban Lakewood asked Msgr. Vincent B. Balmat, chancellor of the Catholic diocese of Cleveland, for a ruling on the course.

Msgr. Balmat replied that "a Catholic may not under any circumstance or pretext attend a class of this kind. It tends toward agnosticism and destroys all objective standards of belief and conduct."

St. Michael's

"A thing of beauty if a joy forever." And it seems as if Old St. Michael's church has been just that; not quite forever, but for many decades. It is one of America's landmarks. Long may it stand as a witness against man's selfishness, against nations' wars. Located in the Deep South, in South Carolina, it might symbolize any church. We like to think of it as God's church, a beacon light to free men of every creed who may find within its confines the path to immortality.

The clock on St. Michael's indicates the passing of time. The clock we see will some day stop, never to run again. St. Michael's itself, may some day crumble into ruin, unless it is preserved by remodeling and rebuilding as the ages wear on toward the perfect day.

In effect, all things worldly decay and die. Only the spirit of God's love, as exemplified by His churches, lives on. That, and time. Some clock somewhere will pick up where the clock of St. Michael's some day stops ticking. Time will wear on. Each second is gone forever; a chance, to find the Divine Way of life, lost for those who have not yet sought it.

But in a spiritual sense, Old St. Michael's will live forever. The influence of its teachings, exemplifying that of all Christian churches, will continue to make itself felt in the lives of its members. They go forth in ever increasing numbers and others seeing their good works shall glorify their Father who is in Heaven.

WHAT WE KNOW ABOUT GOD

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for January 11 is Isaiah 40:28-31; Matthew 6:9; John 8:14; Acts 17:22-31; the Memory Verse being Acts 17:25. He giveth to all life, and breath, and all things.")

WHAT DO we know about God? We know Him through His wondrous works in nature; in the goodness in men, and above all through Jesus Christ, who for the first time called Him Our Father.

Are there any more inspiring and life-giving words in the world than those uttered by Isaiah, many years before Christ came to the earth, and when Isaiah was prophesying His coming?

"Hast thou not known? hast thou not heard, that the everlasting God, the Lord, the Creator of the ends of the earth, fainteth not, neither is weary? there is no searching of His understanding."

"He giveth power to the faint; and to them that have no might He increaseth strength."

"Even the youths shall faint and be weary, and the young men shall utterly fall."

"But they that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run and not be weary; and they shall walk, and not faint."

Young, middle-aged and old persons all grow weary at times and feel they cannot go on with their many tasks. At such times, if they are quiet for a time, and pray for God's strength, it will come to them, and they too shall "run and not be weary," and "walk and not faint."

How to Pray
From the Sermon on the Mount we quote what Jesus said about our prayers to our Father in Heaven. First, He said that if we prayed in secret, God would reward us openly. And after this manner, therefore, pray ye: "Our Father, which art in heaven, Hallowed be Thy name." Our Father, you see—Father to every one of us.

Even those close to Jesus, who were with Him day after day, seemed not to realize how near they were to the Father while He was with them. Not until His death and resurrection did they realize it. John tells us that Philip said to Jesus: "Lord, shew us the Father, and it sufficeth us."

Jesus was grieved and answered him: "Have I been so long time with you, and yet hast thou not known Me, Philip? he that hath seen Me hath seen the Father, and how sayest thou then, shew us the Father?"

He promised them also that if they believed that they would do great works—"And greater works than these (that He had done) shall He do; because I go to the Father." This was on the very last night that Jesus was with them on earth.

Now we come to a scene some years later, when Paul was spreading the Gospel of Jesus in many lands. People were troubled because there was a rumor that there was another king than Caesar, namely a person named Jesus. The brethren had sent Paul from Thessalonica to Athens, famous city which was considered the seat of knowledge and learning, because they feared for his safety.

In Athens he had disputed with the Jews in the synagogue and "certain philosophers" brought him to the Areopagus, and asked him to tell them of this new gospel.

Paul on Mars Hill
Paul stood "in the midst of Mars Hill," and addressed them. "Ye men of Athens," he began, and then went on to tell them that as he entered the city, he had noticed an altar erected to "the unknown god." "Whom therefore ye ignorantly worship, Him declare I unto you," he said.

God made the world and all things therein, and "seeing that He is Lord of Heaven and earth, dwelleth not in temples made with hands."

"Neither is worshipped with men's hands, as though He needed anything, seeing He giveth to all life, and breath, and all things. "And hath made of one blood all nations of men for to dwell on all the face of the earth, and hath determined the times before appointed, and the bounds of their habitation . . .

"For in Him we live, and move, and have our being; as certain of your own poets have said, For we are also His offspring." And as we are the offspring of God, we should not think of God as "like unto gold, or silver, or stone, graven by art and man's device"—such as the statues of men and gods abounding in Athens. God is Love, we are His children, and He our Father.

TAXES AND PSYCHOLOGY

IT SEEMS clear that the taxpayer will get some sort of relief in the coming year. The Republicans have had for some time a plan for tax reduction, and now so do the Democrats. President Truman suggests that Congress take forty dollars per person off the tax of the low-income earner and add enough to the taxes of big corporations to keep the government income up to its present level. Whether the proposal of either party is wise or not remains to be seen.

It is quite likely that the aim of both parties is political. Tax reduction is popular in any year and in election year candidates think it necessary to propose it.

But whether wise or foolish the fact remains that it makes the taxpayer feel good to know he will have a little more for the grocer or department store because a little less goes to the collector of internal revenue. It makes him think the war may some day be over, and perhaps no more wars will come.

Increased production of all means of life and comfort is the great need. It will be interesting to see whether hope of a better future will provide as strong incentive to production as fear did during the war. The psychology of tax reduction is greater than the amounts concerned. The citizen hopes that hope will win.

EX-AMERICANS

AMERICANS who have become foreign citizens may be numbered almost on the fingers of one hand. The latest to attract attention was Oscar Lange, former professor at the University of Chicago, who resumed his former Polish citizenship to become Poland's representative on the council of the United Nations.

Another who has just figured in the news is T. S. Eliot, one of the greatest of living poets, who has just received the highest British honor, the Order of Merit, given to only the most eminent. Eliot became a British citizen in 1927. The only other American to take this step who comes to mind just now was the late William Waldorf Astor of the wealthy New York family. His son, Major John Jacob Astor, is the owner of the London Times.

The United States has been enriched by so many citizens who came here from abroad that we should not mind giving up one now and then.

On April 6, 1927, Chinese police and troops, armed with a warrant countersigned by the dean of the diplomatic corps in Peking, raided the compound lying to the west of the Soviet embassy. In the buildings of this compound, they found certain very interesting documents, some of which are pertinent to present problems.

Among them were a few relating to Marshal Feng Yu-hsiang, who is now in the United States attacking his own government and strengthening public support for the Chinese Communists. I give these documents as they appear in the China Year Book for 1928.

DIET AND HEALTH

A Diet Which Has Proved Its Worth In Treating Diabetics

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

FEW things are more fascinating than the way the body maintains its complicated chemical balance, and few more certain than that disease will result if it goes just a little out of kilter one way or the other.

For health, the amount of sugar in the blood must remain within fairly constant limits. This is accomplished by a secretion from the pancreas of a chemical known as insulin, and we run into trouble whenever it is increased or decreased above or below the normal amount.

In the Abdomen

When the pancreas, which is a gland located in the abdomen, fails to make enough insulin, the body is unable to use sugar and the disease known as diabetes results. On the other hand, when too much insulin is secreted, sugar is burned at a terrific rate and there is a sudden drop in the amount of blood sugar.

The resulting condition, known as hypoglycemia, has unpleasant symptoms, the most common of which are pain in the abdomen, weakness, numbness, cold sweats, dizziness and lack of alertness.

Sensation of Hunger

The sensation of hunger is present in most patients during an attack. At times, there may also be craving for sweets. The symptoms are temporarily stopped by eating, particularly by taking ice-cream or fruit juices.

The symptoms in certain patients studied had been present for a period of from three months to twenty years, the average being four and a half years. As a rule, the attacks came on between one and a half and five hours after a meal, and were started or made worse by physical exertion.

The exact cause of this disorder in which too much insulin is secreted has not been discovered. However, it seems that the condition can be kept under control by proper treatment. The abdominal pain, which occurs in practically all instances, seems to be due to the effect of insulin on the contractions of the stomach and bowel and on the secretion of acid by the stomach.

Like Stomach Ulcer

This pain is so similar to that which occurs as a result of stomach ulcer, that great care must sometimes be taken not to confuse the two ailments. The surest way of ruling out ulcer is through an X-ray examination of the stomach.

The patients mentioned above were treated by giving them a diet low in carbohydrates, that is, starches and sugars. As long as they continued on the diet, no further attacks occurred. The diet should be kept rich in the protein foods, such as meat, milk, and eggs.

In the patients studied, operations on the pancreas were not carried out. Of course, removal of part of the pancreas would reduce the amount of insulin formed.

If it is suspected that this condition is present, a test, known as the glucose tolerance test, may be carried out. This is done by having the patient fast for about six hours and then determining by chemical tests the amount of sugar in the blood. Then the patient is given glucose and, at hourly intervals, for four hours, the blood sugar is again determined. In patients with hypoglycemia, the blood sugar rises; within two to three hours it rapidly drops. If hypoglycemia is suspected, this test should be carried out in order to make a definite diagnosis.

call came through." He brushed

Pierson off. The Scotsman had been in the building only long enough to examine what was left of Michael Nye, and to scan preliminary reports on the young woman found floating from an apartment with a dead man in it, and with no present indication of any other visitor.

He studied the girl caught red-handed. She was very lovely. She was more than that. Other women had broad childlike foreheads, slender springing brows, short straight noses and beautiful eyes. That they had been put together in Catherine Lister in a combination wasn't the point. She had a quick, leaping intelligence. She was lying stupidly. There was something wrong.

She had said that she reached Michael Nye's door at 10:00 p. m. or a minute or two after that she heard voices in Nye's apartment and that in her impatience, she opened the door and walked in. But according to his neighbors, the Findlaters, Nye was alone from a little before half-past nine on. The entire floor at the top of the house had once been a single apartment. The reconstruction of it into two was a flimsy job, the dividing walls were thin and anything but sound-proof, and the Findlaters were at all times adequately informed as to their neighbor's movements.

McKee crossed to the couch, ignored the physical recoil that crowded Catherine back against the cushions, and stooped. Taking her wrist in delicately blunted fingers, he exposed the dial of her wrist watch. And at once the ambiguity of her statement vanished.

Her watch was just over a quarter of an hour fast. She had arrived at Nye's door, not at 10:00 p. m. but at sixteen minutes of ten, and the voices she had heard weren't in Nye's apartment; they came from the Findlaters' radio, which Horace Findlater had turned on at nine-thirty and off at nine-forty-five.

He explained it, watching Catherine thoughtfully. It didn't make her innocent. It did prove that as far as timing was concerned, she was telling the truth. And it opened new possibilities. They were tentative. He sat down in the corner of the couch opposite to her and began outlining them.

The night latch, when the police got there, although the door itself was standing wide, could have been slipped after the crime, by someone leaving the apartment in advance of Catherine. He said, "If so, if the door was unlocked when you arrived, the killer was then, at that moment, the moment when you rang the bell, standing on the other side of the door and about to emerge. He, she—whatever it was—beat a soundless retreat into the bedroom. The bedroom opens into the studio. A switch there controls the living room and hall lights. The lights were turned out so that the killer could escape unseen. As he went through the front door, he probably shoved on the night latch. If that was done, it rather looks as though you were selected as a victim."

Inspector McKee said briefly, "I'm back with you again. I was with the Commissioner when this

YOUR FUTURE

There seems to be a liability to error or deception in your work and business dealings; don't shirk your responsibilities. Your anniversary calls for care in love and domestic matters. Beware of deception, practiced or suffered. Safeguard your own health and that of your family, and cultivate optimism.

MODERN MANNERS

Modern hostesses do not ask house guests for an indefinite stay. Invitations read, usually, for such-and-such a weekend, "Friday to Monday, or Sunday," or "for the week of such and such a time," and the guest is expected to take his or her departure at that time, or risk overstaying his welcome.

they chew bubble gum. Appears as though they are going after the grammar school vote.

Engineers, a survey declares, make the best husbands. Married life has a better chance to run smoothly when all the gadgets in the home do like-wise.

Holland has developed a bubble chocolate bar. Wonderful, now Junior can change to black-face in less than a second.

John Mason postcards that they're sending a group of psychiatrists to that Ohio town where a pottery plant burned down. Why? To take care of the cracked pots?

The one-man auto has made its appearance. The inventor is truly a great humanitarian—for he has eliminated (we thought it never possible) the backseat driver.

JOBS UPON A TIME

New York's Mayor William O'Dwyer was once a longshoreman, a plasterer's helper and a policeman. James F. Byrnes, former secretary of state, began business life as a stenographer.

'Round Circleville - - - - - Hour by Hour

Pages From the Diary of An Antiquated Reporter

Up to find that my forecast of a night Winter attack had failed to materialize. At bedtime had noted that the bottom had practically fallen out of a pair of barometers, one of them in a combination that also registers temperature and humidity. A present from Stansbury and Stout. A beautiful and precise instrument that I apparently do not know how to read. The other barometer one that I bought years ago to tell me when to go fishing. It tells me ok, but apparently bases its advice on getting me out into the country rather than producing fish for the table. Anyway, the storm did not materialize, but the barometric readings still are low. Maybe that means something.

Out and about the ville and here and there hearing rumors that another factory is about to locate here. The truth is that a manufacturer has asked for information relative to labor availability, utility and tax rates, transportation. Same information being sought in other cities. Circleville merely is being considered as a possible factory site.

Down past the GE factory site where grading is progressing at a great pace and where carpenters have started erecting a one story construction office building, 16 by 64 feet in size and to have separate rooms for five different departments connected with erection of the million dollar GE factory building.

Then out to the fairgrounds to check work on the big auditorium. Chatted with Ray Rader, builder, and learned that his work will be complete in just a few more days. Furnaces then must be installed and the building heated so that the plastic floor may be laid. Looks as though the structure will be ready for the county basketball tournament. For the first time in many years basketball fans wishing to see the tourney will be able to do so. Really a lot of seating space in that building.

Over the paves, meeting up with Ray Cook, the councilman. With him did discuss the dwindling parking meter income and voiced opinion that it will keep right on dwindling under the present procedure of handling violators. Know the actual penalty for overtime violation? Five cents, the same as an hour's parking meter fee. So, hundreds of motorists are gambling that they will not be caught. If they are caught in overtime parking the worst that can happen to them is a charge of five cents after a trip to police headquarters.

Now, some members of council are advocating an extra police officer to check parked cars. Probably cost $150 a month or more. More effective than another policeman would be enforcement of the existing ordinance. Charge every overtime parker at least a dollar. See that no favorites are played and follow through on every reported violation. Today, violators even refuse to pay the five cent penalty. Just throw their tickets into the gutter. That statement may be checked quickly with the street cleaners.

Another fault with the present system is that checks are made in the same places at about the same time each day. Motorists are aware of that fact. Many of them know when the sailing is clear. Variation in timing would help.

It was just about noon when I met Councilman Cook. Suggested that he take a brief walk with me. Between Court and Main and Jim Stout's garage we found 16 parking violations. Nothing in the meters. Ray went on home to eat, but I went south on Main to Franklin, part way down West Main street and then north on Court to the office. And I raised the violation tally to 37. One of them was directly in front of the entrance to City Hall.

Parking income will not be increased so as the present system is in effect. Raise the odds to 20 to one against the motorist and another parking meter patrolman probably will not be needed. If another policeman is to be named put him in the regular department where he is needed.

STARS SAY

For Saturday, January 10

Judging by lunar aspects, established programs in which firm foundations seem to warrant great expectations, are threatened by some abrupt shift in procedures, or even an erratic twist in the mind of cooperative forces, which might possibly reverse, or hold up the works. A strange or unorthodox visitation unpredictable nature may upset all calculations.

It might be wise to let it simmer over the weekend.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by an unforeseen development in their affairs, in which the wheels of progress seem to be blocked by strange, irregular or disintegrating factors, difficult to analyze for the time being. Shun all erratic individuals who might attempt to interfere from some quixotic notion. Sidestep all crises, as there are firm foundations based on sound sense, industry and practical techniques, holding promise of future success and security.

A child born on this day although splendidly equipped for establishing itself by industry, sound judgment and practical talents, may have erratic or irregular impulses upsetting its plans for progress and security.

For Sunday, January 11

Sunday's horoscope is a fortuitous one for all serious and solemn activities connected with sabbath observance; also for profound study of philosophic or mystical works, involving reflection and introspection. Nevertheless, a trend to the unusual, unorthodox or unconventional might complex such mental

Of Pickaway Garden
Club January Meet

Mrs. Denham
Guest Speaker

Arrangements of cut flowers provided a fitting setting for the January session of Pickaway Garden Club, when its members met Friday evening in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sterley Croman, route 4.

Mrs. Emmitt W. Barnhart, president, called the meeting to order when reports were submitted by Mrs. Forest Croman, secretary, and Mrs. Luther Bower, treasurer. A communication was read expressing appreciation for the holiday decorations in the Circleville Home and Hospital from the board of managers. Mrs. J. O. Eagleson was appointed to assist Mrs. Fred Cook, club librarian, with compliance and collection of material for the Garden Club library.

Mrs. Blanche Y. Motschman, program chairman, introduced Mrs. Enid Denham, librarian, who was guest speaker. She spoke on "The Green Thumb." Mrs. Denham said there are many books at the Circleville public library containing gardening articles, on how-to-do-it, and garden seed catalogues. Many periodicals carry excellent information and gardening lore, and all are available to interested persons, she said.

She listed numerous books on gardening in general, on flower arrangements, rock gardens and wildflowers. Familiar author is David Grandison Fairchild who has written three outstanding books on garden lore. Fairchild is head of foreign plant exploration the United States Department of Agriculture. Mrs. Denham gave resumes of his books and vivid descriptions of his gardens where many fruits, plants and ornamental trees collected from tropical regions all over the world are to be found.

In keeping with the book theme, members of the club brought arrangements of flowers and plants, suitable for a bookcase. Mrs. George Steeley and Mrs. Turney Pontius were judges and awarded the first prize to Mrs. Motschman, second to Mrs. Dudley Carpenter, and third to Mrs. Barnhart.

A social session followed and refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Forest Croman, Mrs. Charles Pugsley, Mrs. Elmon Richards and Mrs. Donald H. Watt.

Fashion Trends
Displayed

Community leaders from 10 townships met in Pickaway County courthouse Friday for the first in a series of clothing construction training meetings.

Miss Edna Callahan, extension clothing specialist from Ohio State university assisted by Miss Genevieve Alley, county home demonstration agent, conducted the morning and afternoon sessions. The lessons concerned fashion trends, patterns and material selection. The modern silhouette falls into three classes: the triangular, the hour glass and the pencil slim. Waistlines are nipped in proportion and hem lines probably will measure 12 to 14 inches from the floor. In the discussion of pattern and material selection, emphasis was placed upon selections that would hide figure faults. Shoulder padding probably will come from the neckline, taper and soften at the shoulder tip in dressy dresses, and remain heavier and boxier at the shoulder tip in tailored clothes.

During the afternoon, the ladies measured one another for the purpose of determining what size pattern should be selected and what alterations will have to be made.

Lesson II for the leaders from Saltcreek, Perry and Pickaway townships will be conducted Feb. 17. Leaders from Washington, Walnut, Scioto, Jackson, Wayne, Harrison and Darby townships will have Lesson II Feb. 18.

Present for the meeting were Mrs. Glenn Rinehart, Mrs. John Moss, Mrs. Fred Riggins, Mrs. Floyd Brobst, Mrs. Carl D. Bennett, Mrs. Fred Glick, Mrs. Frank Graves, Mrs. Clarence Maxson, Mrs. Harry Wright, Mrs. William E. Defenbaugh, Mrs. Harley Lutz, Mrs. W. E. "But the Man on the Next Street Got His Telephone Yesterday"

This is an expression heard frequently in the telephone office.

On that next street adequate cable facilities may have existed and service connection in that instance may have depended only upon the availability of a telephone instrument.

On your street, however, the cable may be filled to capacity and therefore connection of your service must wait for a vacancy to occur or until present cable facilities can be expanded. In many cases additional central office equipment is also required. Additional cable and central office equipment are being installed as they become available to us and we are constantly striving to bring the day when all who desire service can have it promptly.

County Cage Standings Unchanged

Pickaway, Ashville Still Lead Pack

Pickaway and Ashville leaders of the Pickaway County Basketball League, retained their 1,000 percent ratings after the smoke from Friday night's tilts had cleared.

Pickaway whipped a tough Walnut team on the latter's tiny court, 32-26. Big Russ Ogan was high point man for Pickaway, but was edged by Bob Pontius of Walnut who hit for 10.

Ashville stayed with Pickaway on top of the heap by trimming Scioto 39-25. High scorer for the evening was Bob Glick of Ashville who marked 13 points.

Perry took Jackson to the cleaners 37-30. The Jackson led the fray at the three-quarter mark, 26-25, but Perry roared back in the fourth period to score 12 to Jackson's four. High man for the tilt was Garrison with 12 points.

CLOSEST game of Friday night's play was seen at New Holland, when the Bulldogs edged out Monroe 31-28. Monroe led the scoring all the way up to the last frame, when New Holland marked for 14 to Monroe's four. High scorer was Gene Ankrom, with 10.

Ashville's reserves still maintain their 1,000 percent rating to lead the league. They defeated the Scioto team by one point, 29-28.

Ashville will travel to Grove City Tuesday night.

Games scheduled for next Friday night are: Deercreek at Sater Creek; New Holland at Pickaway; Jackson at Darby and Perry at Monroe. Scioto and Walnut have no games scheduled.

Circleville March Of Dimes Goal Is Set At $10,000

Anti-Polio Drive To Be Emphasized

17 Victims Cost $11,000 In '47

Pickaway county will be asked to dig down deep into its collective pocket during the March of Dimes drive which will start next Thursday.

A goal of $10,000—twice the amount asked last year—of the local campaign committee for 1948.

Although the goal is a large one, the local association, reports that nearly $11,000 was used to help the 17 Pickaway County youngsters stricken by infantile paralysis in 1947.

The 17 1947 polio victims were sent to Children's hospital, Columbus, for treatment. They were sent there partly by the money subscribed in the county, and partly by state funds.

"LAST YEAR," said Don Henkle, chairman of the local drive, "we had to borrow $6,000 from the state fund to take care of the 17 county children. Thanks to the aid they received, 14 of the 17 can look forward to a happy, normal life in the future."

The three youngsters still confined in Children's hospital are expected to remain there until the middle of the year.

"An additional $3,000 will be needed to complete the prescribed treatment they need," Henkle said.

Plans for a county-wide solicitation program have been completed.

Starting the drive, circulars will be sent to county citizens informing them of just what their dollars will produce.

After the circulars have been sent, house-to-house canvassing will be conducted by the Business and Professional Women's club, the Pickaway Rainbow Division Auxiliary, and the Coutelette Club of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

COUNTY AND city schools will be solicited, and donations will be asked at local movie theatres. Most of Circleville's business establishments will have boxes displayed for contributions.

The local campaign committee, other than Henkle, is composed of Mrs. Harriet Hennes, co-chairman; Dr. A. D. Blackburn, medical advisor; Dr. David Goldschmidt, secretary and chairman of club and fraternal organization solicitations; Ed Amey, campaign manager; Harold Watts, chairman of theatre collections; Verne Hawks, chairman of industrial solicitations; and Carl Snyder, chairman of tavern solicitations.

The campaign is to run for two weeks, ending Jan. 31, and results of each week will be announced by the committee.

Only 2 1948 Marriage Licenses Issued—And It's Leap Year

Pickaway County girls must be losing their touch.

Here it is leap year and so far only two sets of applicants for marriage licenses have appeared at the courthouse which indicates the girls are shy or have forgotten it is their turn to pop the "knotty" question.

With the arrival of 1948, the girls need no longer flaunt their wares in hopes of catching the unsuspecting male, for here at last are 366 days in which they can hunt, trap, connive or inveigle THE man into matrimony.

Not that the females haven't been doing this all-the-while, Leap Year or not, but now they can even ask him to marry without seeming too bold.

"WHO," everybody asks, "gave the ladies the idea that every year with 366 days is an open season for husband hunting?"

"Of the custom for women to woo during leap year no satisfactory explanation has ever been offered," concedes the Encyclopedia Britannica. But, for the benefit of anybody who can make any sense out of it, it offers this clue:

"In 1288 a law was enacted in Scotland that 'it is statust and ordaint that during the rein of hir maist blisist Megeste, for ilk year known as lepe year, ilk maiden ladye of bothe highe and love estait shall hae liberte to bespeke ye man she likes, albeit he refuses to taik hir to be his lawful wyfe, he shall be mulcted in ye sum ane pundis or less, as his estait may be; except and awis gif he can make it appear that he is bethrothit aneither woman he then shall be free."

A similar law was adopted in France a few years later, and the girl-bags-boy style of court-ing was legalized in the fifteenth century in Genoa and Florence.

Accused Chief Pleads Innocent

XENIA, Jan. 10 — Ex-Yellow Springs Police Chief Oscar Day, 54, pleaded innocent today to charges of embezzlement of municipal funds. No trial date was set by Greene County Common Pleas Judge Frank L. Johnson. Day is charged with diverting money from traffic fines to his own use by means of a double set of accounts.

amount of six million three hundred and ninety-five thousand six hundred and forty-two roubles, according to the list attached hereto.

Translated by K. Kraff, 16 August, 1926.

Two lists appear, one in the amount of Roubles 6,395,642.31 and another Roubles 4,501,999.15. I cite these documents because the attempt is being made to paint Marshal Feng as a hero who objects to killing Chinese when as a matter of fact he has been engaged in doing precisely that ever since he reached power. When Soviet Russia protested these raids, the Chinese ministry of foreign affairs on April 16, 1927, said in a note:

"The raid resulted in the arrest of important members of the revolutionary party and the discovery of banners to be used by the revolutionaries in an uprising, seals, rosters, and other incriminating evidences and documents. Besides there were discovered large quantities of arms and munitions, such as machine guns, rifles and cartridges and documentary evidence of communications between the Soviet government and the revolutionary party. All these were found either in premises directly under the control of the Soviet embassy or in offices intimately connected with the embassy. How can the Soviet embassy deny its responsibility for harbouring and assisting the revolutionaries in conspiring to disturb and (sic) peace and overthrow the government to which it is accredited?"

State Tax Aide To Help Vendors Make Reports

For the purpose of assisting Pickaway County vendors with their semi-annual sales tax report for the period July through December, 1947, Examiner R. Gregg will be stationed as follows:

Jan. 15 (9 a. m. to 1 p. m.) First National Bank, New Holland.

Jan. 16 (9 a. m. to 1 p. m.) Ashville Banking Company, Ashville.

Jan. 19, 20, 21 (8 a. m., to noon, 1 p. m. to 4 p. m.) county treasurer's office, Circleville.

Vendors are requested to have records of gross and exempt sales, stamp purchases, and inventories of unused stamps on hand at the beginning and close of period.

Report must be filed not later than Jan. 31 in order not to be subject to the $1 per day penalty for late filing.

724 More Cars Sold In 1947 Than In 1946

A total of 5,383 automobile titles were issued through the Pickaway County clerk of courts office last year, 724 more than were recorded in 1946.

During 1946, delivery of new cars totalled 382 along with 175 new trucks. Of these figures, 42 of the autos and 16 trucks were delivered in December of last year, Clerk of Courts A. L. Wilder said.

Comparing last year with 1946, lien notations numbered 2366 in 1947 with 1614 reported the previous year. Lien cancellations last year eclipsed 1946 by totals of 1899 to 1320.

In December of last year, 382 auto titles were issued; 216 lien notations made and 193 lien cancellations made.

Chief Suspect Holds To Alibi

CLEVELAND, Jan. 10 — The chief suspect in the New Year's night slaying of blonde, eight-year-old Sheila Ann Tuley showed signs of wavering in his story today as Cleveland detectives continued a check on his activities of that night.

Detective Lt. David E. Kerr, head of the homicide bureau, said the man's alibi was "full of lies." He said questioning so far had failed to "crack" the neighbor's story but added that "he is worried about something."

Kerr said two witnesses had placed the suspect, described as "the best one we have had yet," in spots not far from the place where the little girl had met a brutal death when she was sent to a store by her father.

Bachelors Face Rough Session

AURORA, Ill., Jan. 10—Aurora bachelors had plenty of warning today.

More than a month from now on Leap Year Day, Feb. 29 to be exact, 75 of the prettiest "old maids" of Aurora will take over the city government as they did in 1944 and 1940.

Women "detectives" will haul all bachelors into court to explain why they are not enjoying married bliss. Several "arrests" of last Leap Year Day actually led to the altar.

And there's nothing much the bachelors can do about it. The Aurora city council had made all of these "girl-gets-boy" shenanigans legal.

Water, Sewage Offices To Be Combined Here

The service director's office in Circleville city building is soon to become the collection point for the department of water and sewage. After renovation and repairs are completed, the new bureau is expected to provide "one-stop-service" for those paying their utility bills.

Plans to modernize the office, expected to begin Monday, call for painting the walls and ceiling and placing clear glass in the windows. The department will be identified with a new sign "Water and Sewage Department" printed on the door.

In addition to centralizing the two departments of Director Irvin Leist into one office, the city civil service commission will hold its meetings there. Leist said work should be completed within one week.

Collections for water service will be made as usual from the first through the 10th of each month.

AFTER THAT, however, late payers may pay their bill in the water department office on the second floor of the city building. Sewer rental charges will be collected quarterly in the new office.

Once the new system is in operation, Leist said, it will save persons paying their water and sewage bills the inconvenience of paying separate bills in two different offices.

A small lake or fish pond is a valuable asset to any farm.
